The United States of America, since long is taken as the Land of Opportunities, but time has proved it should be termed as:

“HOMELAND OF MONSTROUS, ATROCIOUS, BRUTAL, IMMORAL, UNHUMAN & DISSIPATED LEADERSHIP”

The attacks of 9/11, 2001 (which got proved, was the Washington's filthy game plan) should have been viewed as a crime against humanity, but shameless characters like almost all the presidents of "United States of America" having monstrous and immoral intention, nothing good but horrendous and horrific actions are always expected from such beasts.

The investigation by American intelligence had clearly revealed that 9/11 attack was a game-plan of Washington and Pentagon, a stratagem for attacking Afghanistan, a terrible plan to play their dreadful politics over the dead bodies of innocent people of Afghanistan. After the clear picture of Washington's direct involvement in the 9/11 attacks, Pentagon/Washington should have stepped back. Perhaps they had gone so far in antagonism against their own created force named as "TALBAN" that stepping back would have been fatal for America, even then Washington should have tried for a political solution, not killings under cover of terrorism, for their face-saving.

Invasion of Afghanistan on the grounds that terrorism is a heinous crime but not a war, was a big hypocrisy of Washington. All needed was to use the techniques of policing and intelligence, while tackling the underlying causes of terrorism, rather than military methods to deal with the problem, for their own restorative.

"Criminal America" should be designated as an "International Terrorist" for killing its own nationals for the sake of a political bustle against innocent people of Afghanistan, just to control the region for stopping Russia to reach the hot waters through Afghan route. America & Washington is not only the name of an "Enemy of humanity and civilizations" but it should be named as "International Terrorist Organization" which has constantly spoiled, damaged and ruined the peace of the world.

With the clear veracity of attack, United Nations should have formed and implemented a plan of human security, stabilizing Afghanistan, and protecting innocent Afghans, but UN proved to be a B-Company of United States. Unfortunately approach of the UN in Afghanistan was never nation-building; it was to help Washington to kill the innocent Afghans through a civil war situation created by American tactics. No efforts were ever made to streamline the development of torn-apart Afghanistan, there was no reason, that nation building was inadequate, challenging, problematic or difficult in Afghanistan. Only motivation and determination was required on humanitarian basis, not the political.

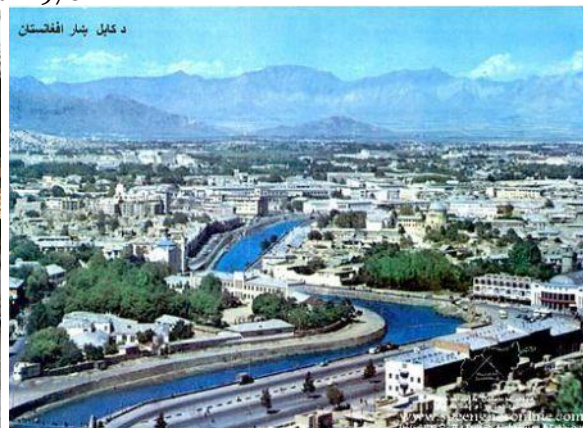

Actually, there was no insurgency until first five years after the invasion. The insurgency began with the raids, drone attacks and bombing the Mujahedeen who once CIA recruited to fight the Soviets in the 1980s. Since Russia had surrendered and gone back, Mujahedeen were named as the warlords or terrorists and Washington took them as a threat against the regional control by Washington.

Reagan termed the Mujahedeen as having moral equivalents as of American forefathers

Antony Blinken, the US secretary of state, had the audacity to blame the Afghan security forces for not defending their country despite all the money the US has provided. But much of the trillions of dollars spent on equipping and training the security forces went into the pockets of the US allies and corrupt afghan officials.

Afghanistan 1970

Moreover, private security contractors used by the US government suddenly withdrew, taking with them the logistical infrastructure needed by the security forces. Above all, the decision to withdraw, taken by the Trump administration and maintained by the Biden administration without conditions, had led to peace talks with the Taliban that excluded the government and empowered the former. For many in the security forces, the hasty withdrawal appeared to signal that the US had changed sides and was now supporting the Taliban, and this was what undermined the will to fight.

Afghanistan 2020

The main lesson from the Afghan experience is that the “war on terror” does not work. Twenty years after the invasion, “International Terrorists” are facing a big downfall. It is true, as Biden said, that the US conducts counter-terror operations in multiple places; in consequence, extreme hate against America has been raised all around the world.
